Definitions of membership types, as outlined in Washington Defender Association Bylaws:

1. Individual Members:

- a. Any attorney or investigator who devotes a significant percentage of his or her practice to public defense by contract or regular appointment as a panel defender and is not employed by a public defender member office;
- b. Any licensed attorney acting as a full time coordinator for a county indigent defense program consisting primarily of individual contract and/or panel attorneys.
- c. Attorneys employed by a public defender office member and who are otherwise eligible may become individual voting members by individual application and payment of individual dues.
- d. Attorneys who have at least five (5) years of significant prior service as a public defender in an office, under contract, or by regular appointment as a panel defender and who are in agreement with the purposes of the association.

2. Associate Members: Any professional person, including law students, practicing attorneys, retired or inactive attorneys, investigators, or other person who is (1) actively involved with the criminal justice system and (2) who is in agreement with the purposes of the association, may be a non-voting associate member of the Washington Defender Association.

3. Friends: Any person who is in agreement with the purposes and principles of the association may become a non-voting friend of the Washington Defender Association, unless otherwise engaged in activities or an occupation at conflict with the interests of the organization or its bylaws.
